

IRIS

This design and shilotte was heavily inspired by medical and biology digrams of the eye. I found it facinating how somthing so small can be so detailed and complex, i wanted to try pay homage to this some what over looked power house in the human body- by mixing muted colour with fun patterns and shilouttes.

The hotel i choose was potao head in bali, this hotel proitises esign and interor in all there spaces, finding the perfect balance between unqiue, contemptry and comersial.

IRIS

Due to this rug having many different colours i wanted it to be as durable as possible while still feeling like a peice of art just on the floor.
