

Mother Oak Rug

When hiking through the forests on the side of cape towns mountains, I became fascinated with the textures and colours of the bark on the trees that I saw. The layered brown and grey textures really spoke to me as something that I saw as one of natures beautiful creations.

Mother Oak Rug

Inspired by the eroded grain and growth rings of driftwood, this sculpted rug turns natural contours into a tactile landscape. Its dense, dark centre rises into a deep wool pile, then becomes lighter and lower toward the organic perimeter.
