

THE FIELDS WE KEPT

The Fields We Kept is a map of our farm, drawn exactly as the fields appear from above on Google Maps. Each circle is a real field — the shape of a life spent working the land. The madder red, indigo and soft ivory inside them are our years: the good harvests and the lean ones, the family fractures, and the years we were afraid we would lose the farm altogether. The camel that connects them all is the earth itself — the ground between the fields, and the ground that held us. This rug was made in memory of my grandfather, who taught us how to keep going.
